

MRS. CAT TO LEAD SUFFRAGE FORCES

Will Make Fight Before Congress for Constitutional Amendment.

The National American Woman Suffrage Association's determined campaign to procure the passage of the federal suffrage amendment at the coming session of Congress is to be under the personal leadership of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, national president, who has arrived in this city to take personal charge of the work.

Those designated to work with Congress will all be in Washington by December 1, and are already optimistic in the hope that, with the new leverage of women's votes in New York, and the approaching choice of forty-three members of Congress from that state, real progress will be made early in the session. These workers represent not only "back home" suffrage organizations, but also the political force of women voters in the west and in New York. They expect to have tabulated the attitude of every congressman on the suffrage question as a working basis.

To Hold Annual Convention.

In the second week of December will come the annual convention of the association at Poll's Theater. This will represent a membership of 2,000,000 women throughout the country. Practically the whole time of the convention will be devoted to plans for clinching the political pressure upon Congress. Probably a thousand delegates will be in attendance, many of them women of political and all of organization experience.

Active preparations for the work in Congress already are under way at headquarters here, under direction of Mrs. Maud Wood Park, congressional chairman, under whose leadership the suffrage program is being carried out. The federal amendment to the calendar of the Senate and secured a special suffrage committee in the House and report upon it in the House.

Mrs. Park's Principal Aids.

With Mrs. Park are Mrs. Helen H. Gardner of this city, Miss Mabel Caldwell Willard of Boston, Miss Ruth White of Kansas City, Mo., congressional secretary, and Miss Ethel M. Smith of this city, as executive secretary.

Among the early arrivals in Washington for the campaign will be Mrs. Mary Garrett Hay, New York; Mrs. Guilford Dudley, Tennessee; Mrs. C. W. McClure, Michigan; Mrs. J. O. Miller, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Ben Hooper, Wisconsin; and Mrs. Horace C. Stillwell, Indiana.

TO HAVE SERVICE FLAG FOR MEN WITH COLORS

Two hundred stars are being sewed into a service flag to be unfurled at a military mass in St. Aloysius Church Thanksgiving morning. This flag is being made in honor of the alumni of Gonzaga College and High School, who have answered the call of country and marched forth under the colors. It will represent the love and pride of those at home, for each star is being sewed into place by a mother, sister, wife or sweetheart of the soldier, sailor or marine for whose name it stands.

The military mass for the men from Gonzaga School and from St. Aloysius parish who are in the service is to be a special ceremony. The service will be a solemn high mass attended by the provincial and other leaders in the Jesuit Society and by several members of the hierarchy. A sermon eulogistic of the spirit of patriotism which carried the men into the service will be given by Rev. Edward J. Sweeney, who during his college days was colonel of the Gonzaga Cadets when it was a prize drill organization of the District. Rev. Paul R. Coniff, S. J., will be followed by Rev. William J. Whelan, S. J., who will be master of ceremonies.

The Gonzaga Cadets at least what is left of them, for there are stars in the service flag for many boys who were in the cadet corps and who marched at the head of a procession, preceded by the cadet band. The Third Sunday Brigade of 1,400 men will attend in a body.

Men from Gonzaga and from St. Aloysius parish who are now at Camp Meigs, the American University, St. Annapolis, Quantico, Camp Meade, Fort Myer and Washington barracks will be present.

The procession in honor of the men in uniform will start from Gonzaga Hall at 8 o'clock and proceed down I street to the National Capitol and into the church through the main entrance.

Conserving Food

With eloquence unloosed I stir men's admiration by telling how I boost the plan of conservation. "I am a helpful dub," I say, in tones that quiver; "I've cut out all such grub as onions and fried liver." I proudly make the boast that I'm no war-time glutton, and then I buy a roast of pork or beef or mutton. I chase along the street until my feet have bunions, denouncing those who eat beef liver fried with onions. It is a mess I hate, hate worse at every trial; so cheerfully I prate about my self-denial. It fills me with disgust, with ire too great to utter, to see you take a crust and spread it thick with butter. I'm helping Uncle Sam by cutting out the greases; with marmalade and jam I spread my loaves in pieces. Grease always gives me boils and strews my face with pimples, and my complexion spoils, so I must dope with simples. So butter I refuse, with stern ejaculation, and then I spread the news how I boost conservation. The grub that I detest with scorn I'm doing treating, and fill up with the rest, the things I'm fond of eating. Then round the town I sash, and tell how I'm conserving by dodging tripe and squash and other things unnerving.

The Boy.

BY RUTH WRIGHT KAUFFMAN OF THE VIGILANTES.

It is so far to Paris-town, And if I leave my dear love sad, It's Germans that I hunt.

They've knocked the gray cathedrals down; They've put a world away; And since their world has all gone mad They'll learn how sane am I.

It is so far to Paris-town, To stay with you were wrong. Oh, can't you hear the drum and fife—I must be very long.

For I must help to pay the debt— And I must see it through; Well—if they need I'll give my life, But it will be—for you.

Schooner Tender Repaired.

Necessary repairs to the gasoline engine in the tender to the Carter schooner, Brooklyn, has kept that vessel in port here for several days, but it is expected she will leave this afternoon or tomorrow for the lower river to load back to this city. For many years masters of river craft depended upon the winds to carry their vessels along, but to the mind of the average river vessel master a power boat now is as necessary to the vessel as are her sails.
